Help Us Achieve Our Goals!

Refer a student! Become a volunteer tutor! Make a donation!

The Cape Cod Literacy Council (CCLC) is a non-profit organization providing literacy education to Cape Cod. Since its founding in 1987, the CCLC has trained over 1,300 volunteers to teach reading and English language skills to adults. Every time you pick up a newspaper or magazine, read the warning labels on your prescription, open a birthday card or check your emails, STOP for just a minute and think: How different would your life be if you could not read?

Cape Cod Literacy Council LEARN TO READ TO LEARN

OUR MISSION! To ensure every adult on Cape Cod will be literate. The gift of reading opens doors, stimulates imaginations, explains our world, promotes understanding and brings us closer together.

ESOL – English for Speakers of Other Languages
HiSET – High School Equivalency Test
ABE – Adult Basic Education Community Programs

OUR ADULT STUDENTS come from all walks of life and represent all ages, incomes, race, cultures and communities. They are store clerks, retired folks, young parents, recent immigrants and high school students. Some need assistance to complete their HiSET (High School Equivalency Test); others strive for job promotions or career changes, while a number of students endeavor to pass their immigration or driving tests.

VOLUNTEER! Our Volunteer tutors are people who love to read and want to support and empower others in the community. Volunteer training workshops are held year-round so you can learn how to tutor an adult and become confident in your role as a volunteer. Contact us anytime for more information about volunteering, workshops and training. You will make a difference!

CONTRIBUTE! The CCLC is funded through grants, donations and the generosity of many concerned citizens. What greater gift could be given than the gift of reading? Please consider supporting our students and programs by making a tax deductible financial contribution payable to Cape Cod Literacy Council and mail to 319 Main Street, P.O. Box 550, Hyannis, MA 02601
